What makes Workday different.

We took a different approach to our design. By starting fresh, we were able to create a single system in the cloud that delivers an engaging experience, complete visibility, robust security, and a more connected customer community. It's a concept we like to call the Power of One.

This philosophy—along with our object-based, in-memory technology—is fundamentally different than that of other vendors. It's what enables us to keep our customers up-to-date with the latest innovations.

One experience.

Workday delivers a single intuitive experience for all users that works the way your people work. All of our products look, act, and feel the same—whether on mobile or web—making it easy to switch between tasks and collaborate.

One source for data.

A single system for finance, HR, planning, and analytics provides you with total visibility into all corners of your organization and the power to act on what you see. Understand your business like never before and make decisions based on truth.

One security model.

We build—and continually update—rigorous safeguards into every product to maintain the highest level of data privacy and security. Our security controls ensure you stay compliant and are always ready for audits.

One community.

All Workday customers are on the same version of Workday, enabling a level of collaboration and continuous innovation that other vendors can't provide. Our customers share ideas, learn best practices, and help shape future functionality.

Build your grocery store to adapt to what's next.

Attract and grow talent.

Recruiting top talent and keeping them engaged isn't just the responsibility of HR. That's why we help teams across the organization align on talent objectives, and connect your workers' career goals with tomorrow's business demands.

Become more efficient.

With machine learning embedded into your financial business processes, you can shorten close times, improve decision-making, and reduce your total cost of ownership.

Gain deeper insight.

Workday delivers data you can trust across the entire organization, surfacing financial, operational, and workforce insights right when you need it. Everyone can see what's driving the business and take action.

Meet future industry demands.

Stay a step ahead to meet customers where they are. Workday makes it easy to change business flows and data structures so you're ready for the next great opportunity.
